CONTROL CORN INSECTS

When corn is planted on heavier soils young corn plants are sometimes damaged by soil - inhabiting insects such as Southern Corn Rootworm, Seed Corn Maggot, and Wireworms, County Agent Jim Smith reported.

Control

There are several ways of controling soil-inhabiting insect pests of corn: (1) Using aldrin or heptachlor in granulated form; (2) Using aldrin or heptachlor as a 5 per cent dust; (3) Using aldrin or heptachlor as an emulsion, and (4) seed treatment of the corn before planting. These control measures are suggested only in those cases where corn is to be planted in moderately heavy to heavy-type soils, or in soils where previous injury has been experienced.

Aldrin or Heptachlor

How Much to Use: 1. Apply 5 per cent aldrin or heptachlor dust with a power, traction, or hand-operated duster at the rate of 40 pounds per acre, or

2. Apply 1 per cent aldrin or heptachlor in granulated or free-flowing mixture with standard fertilizer or lime-spreading equipment at the rate of 200 pounds per acre. If you buy a 2 per cent mixture, then you would apply it at the rate of 100 pounds per acre, or

3. Apply aldrin or heptachlor in emulsion form with a low-gallonage weed-type sprayer at the rate of 2 pounds of actual material per acre.

When to Apply: The aldrin or heptchlor soil treatments should be applied in a broadcast manner either ahead of palnting or at the time of planting corn. The materials should be worked into the soil as soon as feasible after application.

Apply the dust materials only when the wind velocity is low, usually in the early morning or late afternoon.

Seed treatment before planting gives only moderate control, however, when applied as a supplement to soil treatment as described above, more perfect control can be attained.

Corn may be spread on a tight floor or canvass and mixed with the insecticide.

The following table gives the amount of insecticides to use per bushel:

Insecticide	Ounces per Bushel of Corn
Dust
Lindane, 25%	4½
Aldrin, 25%	4 to 8
Aldrin, 75%	1 1/3 to 2 2/3
Heptachlor, 25%	2

Caution: Aldrin, heptchlor, and lindane are poisonous to man and animals. Handle with care according to directions on the container.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Dallas C. Bryant who left us 8 years ago, May 3, 1947.

God gave us a wonderful husband and father,
One of the world's very best.
And when on earth his work was done,
God called him home to rest.
Oft to our hearts comes a bitter cry,
Why, oh why, did he die?
Then comes the answer soft and sweet,
He is not dead, he is just asleep.
No longer there you roam.
Your loving Wife and Children.

Last week the election of the May Queen and her attendants was held. We were all very pleased with the election made by the student body. Our Queen, who is Ruth Slagle, is a senior, having Marie Routon as her maid of honor. Others who make up the court are Mary Helen Childers and Dale Carter, from the 12th grade; Betty Mitchell and Betty Robinson, from the 11th grade; Sandra O'Brien and Ottie Conner, from the 10th grade; and Mary Anna Mc-Dearmon and Peggy Godsey, from the 8th grade. This lovely court with their Queen, Ruth Slagle, will reign Friday, May 6th on the grounds of the high school, starting at 11:00 Friday morning when Play Day will commence and the day will be closed by May Day activities.

Our baseball team plays Altavista here tonight, at the Town Ball Park. We wish them the best of luck. With the exception of one defeat this season, the team has done exceptionally well. I would like to add also, that we are very pleased to have an addition to the baseball squad, Garland Doss. He's doing a fine job, and let's keep it up, Garland!

This concludes most of the happenings around A. H. S. for now. Be looking for more news next week, some time.

'Til then,
Jane.
